

Tuesday, April 10, 2012
4:00 PM
Key Auditorium
(Roger Bacon Hall 202)

About the ICCR

Harnessing their power as active shareowners, ICCR members promote corporate transformation from the inside by engaging and advising management towards sustainable practices that ensure long term business growth while measurably improving their environmental and social impacts.

\(http://www.iccr.org/about/\)

For further details contact:

Tom Dickens, Ph.D.
wtdickens@siena.edu

Director, Franciscan Center for Catholic Studies

The Franciscan Center for Catholic Studies and
The Reinhold Niebuhr Center
for Religion and Politics

welcomes

Laura Berry

Executive Director
Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility

“Transforming Corporations
One Company at a Time:
How Goldman, Wal-Mart and McDonalds
Can Make a Difference”

Laura Berry became Executive Director of the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility in 2007. Prior to joining ICCR, she spent seventeen years on Wall Street managing a Large Cap Value portfolio before beginning her career in the non-profit sector directing community development initiatives in New London and New Haven, CT.